Response to Amendment

1. The amendment dated 4/26/2007 has been fully considered and entered into the Record.

Claims 1-26 and 57 remain active.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-26 and 57 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cobb et al. (US 3,608,297) in view of Miller et al. (US 2003/0165656).

- a. Cobb et al. teach a polyamide yarn suitable for use in carpets comprising 85% of filaments containing 1% titanium dioxide and 15% of filaments containing 0.02% titanium dioxide (col. 2, lines 12-14). The polyamide yarns may be nylon (Table 1). The filaments of each titanium dioxide group may have different denier (claim 8). The applied invention teaches the use of 12 denier fibers (Table 5). The invention of Cobb et al. is silent as to the use of binder fibers.

- b. Miller et al. teach a carpet fiber and binder material comprising binder fibers of nylon 6, nylon 66, and nylon 12 [0023] and carpet fibers of denier of at least 1 and may be made of polyester [0021]. The carpet fibers may include additives such as pigments, dyes and optical brighteners [0021]. The carpet fibers are staple fibers [0003] and the invention more preferably comprises 1-5 weight percent binder fibers [0035].

Art Unit: 1771

c. Since Cobb et al. and Miller et al. are from the same field of endeavor (i.e. nylon carpet fibers), the purpose disclosed by Miller et al. would have been recognized in the pertinent art of Cobb et al.

d. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to have added the binder fibers to the invention of Cobb et al. with the motivation of having all the benefits of staple fiber with the benefits of continuous filament yarn carpet as disclosed by Miller et al. [0014].

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 4/26/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

4. Applicant argues that Examiner has failed to provide adequate motivation to combine the Cobb et al. and Miller et al. references and has relied upon improper hindsight to combine said references. The Cobb et al. reference is primarily concerned with the aesthetics and soil-ability of yarn that may be used in carpet. Miller et al. outline the disadvantages of using either staple fibers or continuous filaments in the production of carpets [0008-0013]. Miller et al. overcomes these disadvantages through the use of binder fibers [0014-0017]. Motivation for the use of binder fibers comes from the secondary reference, Miller et al., not Cobb et al.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO

Art Unit: 1771

MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
